AMSTERDAM SPIN EVENT

BY INVITATION ONLY

OCTOBER 10TH, 2008, 17:00

JOCELYNE PRINCE

A performance in which a team of artists feed glass into a spinning centrifuge: through the hand and body of both the "conductor" and "bit-runners" a manual re-interpretation of 3D rapid prototyping interprets the music being spun on a turntables. Instead of a CAD program transforming information into thin cross-sections that guides material deposits, a group of people collaborate to additively build, with the intention of re-creating within these means and as accurately as possible, the feeling or expression of the music.
